Parts of their body

Gila monsters have beads on their body that protect them, Gila monsters have black and red, orange, pink, or yellow on their skin. These colors on their skin warn predators to stay away. How do animals really know that their colors on their skin really mean “stay away”. Gila monsters weigh 2 feet 0.6 meters long.
